

AACHEN AND SAARBRUCKEN IN GERMANY ARE REPORTED TAKEN BY ALLIED TROOPS

The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

YANKEE TANKS are reported fighting on Hitler's "sacred soil" down at Strasbourg on the Rhine in southwest Germany—and at long last we've got our hob-nail war boot in the jamb of the Fuehrer's front door; the battle of Germany has begun.

Other Allied forces are tearing across western Europe toward the German border so fast that official reports issued by Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters have been as much as 48 hours behind the advancing armies because of security reasons. That seems fantastic, but when operations are in such a fluid state there are many times when the Nazis don't know the location of our fast moving columns. Gen. Ike isn't enlightening 'em.

This of course means that the Allies are continuing to roll up one of the great victories of military history. The conditions are so extraordinary, however, that there's danger of one getting a distorted idea of just what's happening. We aren't having to battle our way forward, save in isolated instances. The Hitlerites are running like rabbits, trying to reach their Siegfried line.

In short, the hour of Hitler's general withdrawal to his inner fortress, so far as concerns all western Europe, is at hand. And he has delayed so long, in his futile effort to throw back the invasion, that disaster rides on his shoulders like the old man of the sea. Will he be able to salvage enough from the wreckage to make a stand on the Siegfried line?

At this juncture probably neither he nor anyone else knows, for it's on the knees of the gods. The Allied air forces are having a field day pouring death, destruction and havoc onto the retreating Germans. Our ground forces also are killing and capturing many contingents of enemy troops, and it's estimated that they have 100,000 Hitlerites trapped on the Pas de

AUTOS STRIKE POLES. NO ONE IS INJURED

No one was injured at 8:30 p. m. Sunday when a car, driven by Chris H. Leasure, 32, of Alliance struck the rear of a car driven by Norwood Wilkinson, 42, of Garfield, as the latter attempted to turn left into a driveway on Route 62, three miles west of the city.

Leasure's car also struck a pole on the roadside. A hit-skip operator sheared into a power pole near the Brooks farm on Route 62, north of Salem, at 1 a. m. Sunday. Residents nearby reported the accident to the state patrol furnishing the license number of the automobile.

NAREW RIVER IS CROSSED BY SOVIET ARMY

Russians Register Gains In New Drive Toward East Prussia

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Russian troops have crossed the historic Narew river in their new, full-fledged offensive toward East Prussia, the German radio asserted late today.

The push in the Narew river sector threatens invasion or outflanking of East Prussia and also menaces Warsaw from the north. The Russian offensive started Sunday. Moscow reported 100 towns captured in the sector yesterday.

The Germans said the Russians had brought up new tank and infantry divisions. The exact point of crossing was not specified.

Russian and Romanian troops stormed down the mountainous eastern watershed of the Hungarian plains while Red army units in Poland drove an armored battering ram deep into the Warsaw-East Prussia defense belt.

Soviet successes in Transylvania along the historic invasion route to Hungary and southwest of Lomza between Warsaw and East Prussia's southern border were being exploited with new attacks against fierce resistance, front dispatches said.

Russian and Romanian divisions, officially operating in coordination for the first time, pushed forward against a combined German and Hungarian force. They were heading for the Mures river valley, which runs westward into Hungary. One supporting column veered southwestward toward Sibiu, which controls the northern exit of the Turnu pass through the Transylvanian Alps.

Capture of Brasov, which was announced yesterday, assured complete possession of the Predeal pass, through the Alps, and it was a downhill fight from there to Hungary.

Sibiu, second in importance only to Brasov as a center of Transylvanian rail communications, was within 70 miles of the leading Russian and Romanian units. Its fall would signal the beginning of the battle of Hungary.

Romanian peasants helped guide Russian scouts on the mountain trails and reported the location of enemy units, front dispatches said. The gap between Russian force and those of Marshal Tito's partisans in Yugoslavia was closing.

NAZIS WIPE OUT FRENCH TOWN

Homes Burned, Inhabitants Murdered, War Correspondent Finds

By WES GALLAGHER

MARTINCOURT, France, Sept. 4.—(Delayed)—Have you ever seen a town murdered? This one was a few hours ago by German soldiers.

Every house is a smoking shell. Bodies of dogs, cows, pigs and even chickens lie slaughtered in the street. Under an apple tree, beside an overturned basket of apples he had been picking lies the bullet-riddled body of a 72-year-old grandfather, half-burned by a thermite grenade.

In a grenade-torn church is the body of a young man. He had been in bed with a broken leg when German soldiers burst into the house, shot him in the head.

There are two other bodies and but for a woman's pleadings there might perhaps have been more.

In four and a half years on war fronts I had always viewed stories of Germans wiping out a town or village with suspicion, so when I received a report at rear headquarters that a reconnaissance patrol had found Martincourt wiped out I took the opportunity to see for myself.

It was arranged by the area commander that Earl Mazo of Stars and Stripes, and myself go in with an armed escort bringing up rations.

Airport Near Canton Given WPB Approval

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Priorities for developments of a big new airport between Canton and Akron, Ohio, have been approved by the War Production Board, Rep. Carson (R-Ohio) said today.

The Civil Aeronautics administration said the field was among those recommended as important to war activities by the secretaries of war, navy and commerce.

CAA, which had not been notified of the WPB action, said its regional office at Chicago is ready to award contracts totaling $1,600,000 for grading, draining and paving. There will be three runways each 5,600 feet long.

A WPB letter to Carson said the total cost will be $2,080,900.

Earth Tremors Felt In Northern Ohio Cities Early Today

Heavy earth tremors of approximately one minute duration were felt throughout northern Ohio at 12:42 a. m. (Eastern War time) today. Cities reporting the earth movement included Cleveland, Akron, Canton, Toledo, Zanesville and Dayton.

The tremors were felt at intervals with the regularity of a heart beat for about one minute. No damage was reported.

In Cleveland Rev. Joseph S. Joliet, S. J., seismologist, at John Carroll university, described the disturbance as an earthquake of medium intensity and of very distinct shock. He placed the center of the disturbance 270 miles northwest of Cleveland.

Cleveland Charity hospital reported some patients awakened by the tremor. Newspapers were swamped with inquiries. Reports varied from seeing a "swinging lamp" in the Red Cross teletype operator who said his machine started shaking "and the keys just seemed to move away from my hands."

An Ohio Bell Telephone operator at Canton reported "the building was shaking" and an Akron woman declared her refrigerator shook and food inside moved around.

The tremor, seventh felt in northern Ohio since 1925, was reported through northeastern states, eastern Canada, extending as far west as Wisconsin.

ISLAND RAIDS CARRIED OUT

Japs Lose 30 Ships, 107 Planes In Series of Sea, Air Blows

(By Associated Press)

U. S. PACIFIC HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Sept. 5.—In a thunderous prelude to the next big Pacific push, 30 Japanese ships and 107 planes have been knocked out in a five-day period during which American warships shelled and bombers battered the invasion-menaced Philippines.

Communications yesterday and today reported this heaviest set of blows, spread along more than 4,000 miles of Nippon's inner defense ring of islands, since the conquest of Guam Aug. 9.

Planes alone expended more than 800 tons of explosives and hundreds of rockets.

The Bonin and Volcano islands were blasted by air and sea. Emphasizing the mammoth size of the Pacific fleet, while one task force was operating south of Tokyo in such strength that the Japanese navy declined to challenge it.

Headquarters Silent About Latest Moves

AT THE SWISS-FRENCH FRONTIER, Sept. 5.—Reports reaching this frontier tonight said the Allies had captured Aachen and Saarbrücken in Germany.

(No confirmation of this report was forthcoming from Supreme invasion headquarters, which has maintained almost complete silence for several days on operations in the French-German border district.)

LONDON, Sept. 5.—American troops were believed to be stabbing into the Rhine valley beyond the German border in a secrecy-shrouded offensive today. Perhaps they are well into the Siegfried line defense zone.

This drive, which Supreme headquarters has kept under a security silence for three days, has had time enough to penetrate up to 75 miles. A dispatch from the French frontier said it was reliably reported American tanks had reached the outskirts of the French border city of Strasbourg, on the Rhine 70 miles east of Nancy, and that fighting was in progress on German soil around Saarbrücken. Other unofficial reports said the Americans had crossed the German frontier at three places on a 100-mile front.

To the north a British flying column which captured Brussels and Antwerp in a 48-hour border-to-border sweep across Belgium was reported to have raced through Breda, five miles inside Holland, and to be pushing down the last 28 miles to important port of Rotterdam.

Behind these advances German forces estimated all the way from 50,000 to 100,000 men were caught in a cauldron along the channel coast—a Dunkerque in reverse.

Supreme headquarters announced that in the area of Mons, Belgium, where the U. S. First army has been operating, a large pocket of Germans has been wiped out, 9,000 prisoners have been taken and 40 tanks and 1,300 motor vehicles captured or destroyed.

Twin Attack Imminent
The Siegfried line was under actual or impending assault at both ends. The reports, none of them confirmed, of the three American crossings of the German frontier created the operations at Aachen, 70 miles east of Brussels; Perl at the junction of the German-French-Luxembourg border, and a point somewhere on the northeast frontier of Luxembourg.

In a London broadcast Pierre Dupong, president and prime minister of Luxembourg welcomed Allied troops into the Duchy.

In Belgium there was no official news of any American push closer to Aachen than the area of Charleroi, 75 miles to the southwest.

Free Belgian broadcasts, however, were recorded from Namur, 15 miles northeast of Charleroi and Turn to HEADQUARTERS, Page 5

PUPILS RETURN TO CLASS TOMORROW

Fall term to open with Half-day Schedule; New Staff at St. Paul's

Salem youngsters will begin their daily educational tasks tomorrow when the school bells ring out the opening of the 1944-45 school year in public and parochial buildings.

With a new staff this year, the St. Paul's grade school will open tomorrow with a half day's session. Registration and a shortened daily schedule will make up the half day's program. Sister Alphonsus, the new principal, said today.

Besides the principal, who replaced Sister Maureen Aug. 15, St. Paul's school has three other new instructors. Sister Cornelia will teach fifth and sixth grades, Sister Marie Deane third and fourth and Sister Bernadette the first and second grades. The principal teaches seventh and eighth grade classes.

Public school principals met this morning in the High school buildings with Supt. E. S. Kerr for pre-opening instructions and then held meetings with their respective staffs in the various school buildings this afternoon. Freshmen, new to the High school, met in the building this afternoon and received instructions on procedure in their new environment and were shown their respective rooms.

Schedules throughout the various buildings tomorrow call for a half day's session.

U. S. BOMBERS HIT TARGETS IN RHINELAND

Blast Transport, Factories At Stuttgart, Karlsruhe And Ludwigshafen

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Sept. 5.—American heavy bombers smashed today at the Rhineland transport and industrial centers of Stuttgart, Karlsruhe and Ludwigshafen, all in the path of advancing Allied armies of the west.

Berlin said other American fleets from Italy were striking in Hungary, supporting Russian armies moving through the Transylvanian Alps.

Perhaps the most significant of the three-target attack by nearly 750 Flying Fortresses and Liberators from Britain was the attack on the rail yards and repair shops at Karlsruhe (189,850) just across the French-German border in the Rhineland. Mosquitos dropped many two-ton blockbusters on Karlsruhe last night without loss.

Air battles reported
Because of its location and huge transport facilities, Karlsruhe is a logical first point for supplies and reinforcements which Hitler probably is marshalling for the battle of Germany. One report placed the U. S. Third army within 40 miles of Karlsruhe.

Up to 500 Mustang fighters escorted the bombers and Berlin said air battles ensued.

The Daimler-Benz plane works and a motor transport plant were bombed visually in clear weather at Stuttgart, Germany's 14th city.

Karlsruhe rail targets also could be seen from aloft.

At the big chemical works of Ludwigshafen on the Rhine, the fliers encountered heavy clouds and dropped explosives by instrument objectives not specifically described.

The Swiss radio said two American bombers made forced landings in that neutral republic after violating Switzerland's "air space."

Waves of Allied warplanes darkened the skies above Britain in flights straight toward the invasion-threatened Reich, whose inner fortifications were doomed to increasing aerial bombardment.

PLAYERS TO HOLD TRY-OUTS TONIGHT

Choosing "Murray Hill," a light comedy by Leslie Howard, as its first production in place of "Poor Little Me," originally scheduled for September, the Salem Players club will conduct tryouts in their club rooms in the Woolworth building at 8 p. m. tonight.

Casting difficulties necessitated the change to the new play, club officials said today, and production of the Howard work is to begin next week with plans calling for the opening night in the first or second week of October.

The production, which was written and produced by Howard, is a radical departure from his usual plays.

The Tourists Come Home

The battle of France has been decided. Except for the German military technique of sacrificing troops, it would be over. Militarily, the German position in all of western Europe from northern Denmark to the beleaguered positions in Italy is untenable. Allied penetration of Belgium is a threat to outflank German forces in the low countries. The Allied drive north from the Mediterranean pockets the Germans in southwestern France. Their position is hopeless. The tourists must come home. Whatever remains of the war on the western front now must be reorganized on German soil. The decision will be made in the valley of the Rhine. It is still to be seen how well Germans can fight in defense of their homeland, or if they have salvaged enough from their debacle in the west to fight at all. But it would be absurd to underestimate the advantages of their position.

Fighting in Germany, they would be free for the first time in the war of the handicap of an unfriendly civilian population. In their fortifications—constructed with the utmost care over many years for exactly this contingency—they would have the benefit of the toughest obstacles it is possible to devise to stop an offensive. In the Rhine itself, they have a natural barrier of great value.

Psychologically, individual soldiers would have the important incentive of home defense. Men who have fought skillfully in North Africa, Sicily, Italy, Russia and France hardly can be expected to fight less well on German soil, unless they have become so disorganized in their retreat, so hard pressed for reserves and materials that they have lost all semblance of organization.

Setting The Direction

Decision by the house to stand with the senate in rejecting the proposal for federal expansion of unemployment compensation as a special relief measure for war workers sets the direction of public policy on this matter. It is unlikely the pressure groups which have demanded the expansion will force a reversal of the decision either in this congress or its successor. Unemployment compensation for civilians will continue to be a state function.

The decision is plainly based on a feeling that war workers, having drawn heavily on war boom wage inflation supported by the federal government's policy of overtime rates for work in excess of 40 hours, should be able to take care of themselves with whatever assistance they need from existing unemployment insurance reserves. It is based, also, on the growing determination among congressmen, except New Dealers, to check the expansion of federal control over social security at its present level. This attitude reflects support of a political doctrine; the attitude toward self-help reflects economic doctrine.

The house decision is one more sign of congressional reaction from the New Deal's steady encroachment on the authority of states. It is a sign, moreover, of a public conviction reflecting itself in congress, that if the federal government does not curtail its eagerness to support the people on demand, the people may find their ability to support the government on demand critically endangered by excessive taxation.

Satisfaction Guaranteed

Occupation of the first soil of Germany to be reached in the war apparently is to be an American privilege. If it turns out that way, it will be a privilege with satisfaction guaranteed.

The United States wants no German territory. It wants nothing from German territory, or from Germans. It was reluctant to face the fact of another war with Germany, and it will be reluctant to keep troops inside Germany a minute longer than is necessary to finish the job they are doing.

That job is to demonstrate by force to Germans what never has been demonstrable by logic, threats and appeals to fairness—that they have no rights which may be satisfied at the expense of other nations' rights. In the last war, the demonstration by force was spoiled by a premature peace that left Germans with the illusion they had not lost the war. This time it is to be different. There is to be a sweeping invasion of Germany, not for conquest but for an example to Germans that they are not isolated from the consequences of their own behavior.

Actually, invasion by land has been made an anti-climax by air power. Germany has writhed under counter-blasts from the air so long that the presence of Allied troops may even be in some instances a respite from punishment by bombs.

Five Days Ahead

Gen. Eisenhower has killed a lot of speculation in its tracks by disclosing that the Allied forces under his command are five days ahead of schedule in their drive to reach Germany. It reveals not only that the invasion plan was more meticulously detailed than it was believed to be, but indicates that whatever delay was caused by bitter-end German resistance in Normandy has been more than made up since the break-through by Gen. Patton's forces.

Gen. Eisenhower's explanation of Normandy is that German strategy called for containing the invasion in that area and, therefore, put into the battle the cream of the German forces. When the breakthrough came, the German backbone was broken. The result was the spectacular advance on Paris, the envelopment of Germany's best western army and the rapid development of a mobile campaign to cut up the remnants of resistance in France. This was aided, of course, by the new landing on the Mediterranean coast and the northward thrust that is now approaching the Allies' eastern salient in the north. Within a few days, all German troops left in France south of a line drawn from Nantes on the Atlantic coast to Belfort on the German border will be surrounded. Already, all organized German effort has disintegrated, except the rocket bomb attack on southern England, and even the rocket coast is now threatened with encirclement. When Winston Churchill on invasion day chortled, "Everything is going according to plan—and what a plan!" he obviously was understating the case.

September In Poland

Five years ago, aided by perfect weather, Germany's mechanized armies finished their campaign in Poland in 27 days. The Russians finished their part of the mop-up with similar facility, and on Sept. 29 the victors signed the fourth partition of Poland.

There is evil omen for Germany in 1944 in the coming of September to Poland. The same weather which their careful records disclosed would be good while they raced east will prevail again this month for the Russians on their way to the west. They are poised at Warsaw, apparently waiting for the exact moment to start a drive which may make Germany's record conquest of 1939 seem like slow motion.

The Stars Say

For Tuesday, September 5

A QUICK and decisive effort at grasping unusual or unexpected opportunities for growth, progress and expansion should bring surprising results according to lunar transits. Nevertheless there may be need for new ways of attacking perilous propositions or dangerous situations, as precaution, cleverness and novelty may be powerful in averting devastating circumstances. There may be sudden uprooting, change or rearranged plans and associates, of far reaching importance. This condition may prevail in both business and private relations, in the latter being intrigue, possibly illusion, delusion, should imagination run riot. Be cautious.

Those whose birthday it is may face a difficult year in which disturbing or devastating forces may demand cautious and wise consideration lest there be sudden changes, removals, estrangements or other far reaching denouements. With fresh and alluring openings for exceptional benefits or progress, it would be well to refrain from impulsive or emotional decisions. This in both business and private relationships, as both are beset by the menace of erratic, rash or decisive judgments. Romance may take sudden turns but not enduring or pleasant ones.

A child born on this day may have exceptional opportunities for progress and attainments yet its impetuous or erratic behavior may cause defeat. Its vivid imagination and feelings may beget loss and regrets.

For Wednesday, September 6

A DAY of dramatic, adventurous and exciting events may be read from the ruling aspects of major planets. This applies to social, romantic, domestic and cultural affairs as well as financial, professional and business objectives. And while there is every prospect of outstanding success, with enhanced influence and popularity to be won by persistent and sagacious endeavors, based on sound logic and principle yet there may be little cooperation from those in influence. Be careful signing papers and be discreet in affectional associations.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of an exciting, adventurous and dramatic year, in which there may be high romantic experiences as well as unusual achievements in industry, business and major activities, in which there may be increased popularity and prestige, with expending credit and investments, attained by shrewd, persistent and wise efforts, of individual responsibility since aid from higher-ups may be withheld, unless managed with finesse. In personal relations there may be festive occasions, births, engagements, marriages or other celebrations. Be careful with all documents and writings.

A child born on this day may have sound ambitions, personal and business, and these may be secured by individual effort, industry and efficiency.

"But if all the nutrition specialists," he continued, blandly, "would lay off teaching the American housewife to shop for vitamins, and urge her to learn to cook the nutrition of this country would improve one million per cent."

Learning To Cook

"And learning to cook doesn't mean learning to wash carrots in an attractive way."

"You hear lots of crabs about modern education nowadays and they all come down to the basic idea that our young people do not learn enough practical things in school. To a considerable extent they are justified. If the modern young ladies academy would be down on French cooking instead of French its curriculum would be improved. The bride of today should really be made to show her cooking school certificate, not her birth certificate."

"And men too. Men take to cooking better than women, although I confess their temperaments incline them to specialization. Take Hall Smith's bouillabaisse! Colleges tend to practical courses more and more—they teach you to make things, and to box and wrestle and use side arms. But instead of so much making and bawling they should introduce baking and broiling."

"The amount of bad cooking in this world, considering how many meals are cooked per day, is simply unbelievable. Whole nations know nothing about good cooking at all. Somewhere in the middle ages the English learned that boiling water would soften food. The Spanish learned that heating oil would fry foods, and they have learned nothing about cooking since. These are known amongst us gastronomes as the crimes of water and the ordeal by flame."

Best Cooking

"I incline to the creed that the best cooking in the world is American, French and Mexican in the order named. In Peru today they are good too."

"It is not mere patriotism that makes me put American cooking at the head. In the first and last treatise ever to be written on gastronomy—Brillat-Savarin's Physiology of Taste—the author betrays the fact that he spent five of the most impressionable years of his life on these shores. 'During my sojourn in Hartford, in Connecticut,' he writes, 'I had the good fortune to shoot a wild turkey—and then he learned about turkey.' On another page he goes into raptures on American chocolate. And his description of turkey soup at Little's Tavern in New York makes your saliva gush."

"But if France learned about cooking from America, she became an apt pupil. France and America are the only countries I know where the cooking in towns outside the capital is better than in the capital."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
E. L. Can any harm come from the continued use of cocoa? They speak of cocoa leaves being an opiate. I began taking it to gain weight?
A. Cocoa contains no opiate or narcotic drug. It is no more habit forming than coffee, its stimulating effect being due to a similar substance to caffeine, theobromine. It has a very high nutritive value, and if you are taking it to gain weight, you have a good means.

J. M. T.: What are the medicinal properties of sauerkraut juice?
A. It is mildly laxative. It is rich in Vitamin C, and will prevent scurvy in children as well as orange juice (Dr. Rice—Archives of Pediatrics), on account of its content of lactic acid and lactic acid bacillus it is good for intestinal putrefaction and it is stimulating to the appetite.

P. P. A.: How high can blood sugar rise in a glucose tolerance test?
P. P. A.: How high can blood sugar rise in a glucose tolerance test is conducted by obtaining a specimen of blood in the fasting state, then feeding the subject 100 grams of glucose flavored with lemon juice by mouth. Specimen of blood are secured at half hour intervals after the glucose is ingested. The curve normally goes up to 140 mg. glucose per 100 cc. blood at one hour and then drops so that it reaches 80 to 100 mg. at the three hour interval. Any increase in this indicates diabetes.

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

Mary heard Matthew's step and looked up as did Lynn. Their faces were frozen into an agony of surprise. But only briefly, because Matthew's face was not frozen. It was lax with shock.

"He said, 'They couldn't save her.'"

Mary rose and put her arms around him. Her son said, after a moment, "She wasn't conscious. . . . She hadn't been. . . . He added, 'She hadn't been. . . . I didn't suffer.'"

Irene had been his wife and she was dead. . . . his child was dead. . . . never having lived. Small and gentle, and mangled he had found her here in the hospital where she had trained and where he had loved and worked.

After a while Matthew let them take him away, not to his empty house, not to the room he had shared with Irene, the room which opened on another room, a small room, bright and gay and waiting. He went to his mother's, and Lynn Mortimer took over the arrangements for the sending of messages. With infinite patience he found the name and address of Irene's relative in the Northwest. He had everything, he was a tower of strength. And old Dr. Timmons came in and sat with Matthew and Mary.

Toward morning, "He's asleep," he told Mary. "You go to bed. I'll see you something to take."

"Please don't. I'm all right," she said.

She was, she was needed. She was anxious, she was submerging herself in her son.

The services were very quiet. Judith Lambert was there, with her mother and aunt. Matthew saw her, when he and his mother left the church.

"Judith came," he said, with an effort.

"She flew back from Palm Beach," he said. "That was nice of her."

Back in his mother's apartment, after the burial service, he sat looking at his hands. He said, "There's work."

"Of course."

Matthew was desperately bewildered. He had loved Irene and she had loved him. They had had such a short space of time together. He thought, I will miss her so much. Aloud he said, "I don't think I can go back."

His mother urged, "You needn't. You can come here. It's almost as close to the office. It isn't as big as our other apartment, but there's the guest room. I hoped you'd want to come, Matthew."

He said, "I intended to. . . . I-I can't be alone."

Water ended and spring came to Manhattan, on the wings of a rainy wind, warm and full of promise.

Matthew had settled back into his routine. He was working hard; too hard, Mary thought. He did not often speak of Irene, but twice he said, "I miss her, it's hard to get used to missing someone." His practice held him and Elizabeth Nelson ran his office with great efficiency and he grew to depend upon her. She came and stood by his desk during a free moment one May afternoon and looked at him with her steady blue eyes. She asked, "Matthew, may I speak to you for a minute?"

She had been Irene's friend and was his. They were alone, so the office formality could be dropped. He pushed back his appointment and end smiled at her. "Sit down, Elizabeth," he said; "what's on your mind?"

She hesitated, sitting straight on the edge of the comfortable chair, her cap a little awry on her smooth blond hair.

"It's matrimony, I'm afraid."

"Oh," Matthew raised his eyebrows and for a moment his face grew somber. She thought: That's funny, he's angry. . . . or isn't it anger?

"Spring and all that?" he inquired with an effort at lightness.

Elizabeth said, "No. . . . It's just that Peter has had a raise and if you wouldn't. . . . that is, if you would let me go on working, we could manage. We've been engaged for a long time." She steadied her voice. "We are very much in love."

She thought: You were in love, you had such a little while together, can't you understand how much that frightened me? Peter and I must have each other, we must be long; then, if anything happens to one of us, we will have had that much.

Matthew said slowly, "You know how I feel about married women in an office, especially those newly married. They're apt to be pretty disintegrated. Then there's always the possibility of a baby, Elizabeth."

She said, flushing slightly, "That needn't be, not for a long time. We couldn't afford it."

He drew circles on a prescription blank, added a mustache and tilted eyes, pushed it away. Irene's picture looked at him from his desk, serenely. It wasn't a very good picture and did not do her gentle coloring justice. But he could supply the lack. Irene had stood at this desk a thousand times, in cap and uniform. . . . He shook his head, and swallowed hard. He didn't approve, but for Irene's sake. . . .

So Matthew said, "Okay, Elizabeth, suppose we try it? And if you want a few days off for the honeymoon, that's all right too, we'll manage here."

She said, "Thank you, Matthew." She rose and looked at him directly. "The office won't suffer because of this," she promised.

"I'm sure of that. Peter's a lucky man. By the way, have I ever told you how much I like him?"

"No, but I'm glad you do," she said soberly. Explaining Dr. Norman to Peter that evening Elizabeth said, "It isn't that he doesn't miss poor Irene or doesn't think of her, it's just—well, you've met him, you know his vitality."

"How'd he take the great announcement?" asked Peter.

"He took it all right, though at first I thought he wouldn't. I told him the work wouldn't suffer." She said, low, "It won't. As long as we can be together at the end of the day, I can do anything!"

"My darling," Peter reached for her hand across the table, and smiled. "After all, there are other jobs."

"Not as easy to come by," she answered, "and I wouldn't want to go back to the hospital or private duty; it takes too much out of me. Besides, I like the office, I like the other men and the girls and the work. Matthew's fine to work with, once you learn his ways."

He said, "I hope you won't have to keep on too long. It's such a sacrifice for you, Betty."

"None," she said, smiling. She added, "We're even to have a honeymoon if you can spare the time. We can go away somewhere in the car, and just drive around. . . . New England, perhaps, and stay at inexpensive little inns?"

Peter caught his breath, then said, "We'll take the time, all right."

Matthew, reporting to his mother, was a little gloomy. "I don't know how it will work out, in a night or two, shall we? I could do with some contract."

Mary nodded. She had made a point of having callers to distract Matthew. Old friends, who wouldn't mind coming and spending a few unexciting hours. He needed laughter. Mary, speaking privately to Lynn Mortimer, said, "It isn't that he loves or misses her less, but he's young, and he works so dreadfully hard."

Now she answered her son, "Of course. . . . Sam and Hilda—Bill and Barbara?"

side him. He suggested, after a while, "Let's ask someone for dinner in a night or two, shall we? I could do with some contract."

Mary nodded. She had made a point of having callers to distract Matthew. Old friends, who wouldn't mind coming and spending a few unexciting hours. He needed laughter. Mary, speaking privately to Lynn Mortimer, said, "It isn't that he loves or misses her less, but he's young, and he works so dreadfully hard."

Now she answered her son, "Of course. . . . Sam and Hilda—Bill and Barbara?"

"Judy in town?" Matthew asked. "As far as I know she is."

"Couldn't you get Lynn and Judy?" he wanted to know. "Hilda plays a rotten game. Barbara doesn't keep her mind on the cards if Bill's around, and, besides, we're apt to talk shop."

So, a day or so later, Judith Lambert and Lynn Mortimer came to Mary's for dinner and cards. And Matthew said, stretching his long legs under the table, "I hope to high heaven I'm not called out to-night."

He wasn't.

PENNEY'S
A. C. PENNEY CO., INC.

Will you be lucky enough to have a glass roof over your head?

You hear a lot and read a lot about how the post-war world is going to be a kind of wonderland. . . .

A wonderland of tear-drop automobiles, helicopters, clothing made from coal, and houses from glass. It's all quite possible. It's all quite probable.

But let's not forget that these things won't come free of charge. Let's not forget that America as a country . . . Americans as individuals . . . will need money, and plenty of it, to make these dreams of a peacetime world come true.

We'll need money to "cushion" the change-over from wartime production to peacetime production. We'll need it to create markets for post-war goods . . . keep factory wheels turning . . . prevent depression.

And you—you, personally—will need it for your own security in days of changing conditions, shifting employment.

Today, you have that money.

Are you letting it slip through your fingers? Or are you using it to help your Country win the war . . . and help yourself enjoy the fruits of Peace?

Every War Bond you buy and hold does both these things. Every $3 you invest now to back the Attack will bring you back $4 at a time when you may want and need those dollars much more than you do today.

So, keep on buying Bonds with every dollar you can scrape up. Hang on to them against all temptation.

There's no better way to back up your fighting men.

There's no better way to be sure of having the good things, the good life, in the world of tomorrow.

General Eisenhower calls it "esprit"!

IT'S A SPIRIT that rises to accept each new challenge with dignity.

It's a spirit born of vision. Of a love of freedom so great it transcends human hopes and fears. And makes any sacrifice worth while.

It's the spirit that tackles all kinds of Army jobs. Humbly. But with a joyous pride.

A spirit that has its eyes on Tomorrow—a spirit that has won the eternal respect of the Army of the United States.

This is why General Eisenhower has said:

"The esprit constantly exhibited by our Wacs is exemplary!"

Esprit! "I couldn't just wait for the war to end. I'm working for victory!" says Corporal Margaret Wyanat.

Esprit! "I'm proud of my job—intelligence work at an Army airfield!" says Sergeant Anne MacIntosh.

OHIO LEGISLATURE CONVENES TONIGHT

Solons to Act On Teacher
Wages and Soldier Vote Rules

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Sept. 5.—As Ohio youngsters trudged back to school today for the opening of the fall term, the legislature prepared to meet in special session tonight to grant their teachers $8,000,000 in salary increases. It also will decide whether soldiers may mark ballots with other than the required black pencil.

Gov. John W. Bricker's original call for the assembly mentioned only raises for teachers. This was amended last week to include a request that the law be changed to permit members of the armed forces to mark ballots in any legible manner even with "the business end of a bullet."

It is the second special session of the year—the first enabled absent soldiers to vote in the coming elections—and is expected to finish its business within two or three days.

Little difficulty is anticipated in boosting teacher salaries. The State Education department reports teachers have left classrooms at the rate of 10 a day since Pearl Harbor, thousands of them lured by higher wages paid in war plants. Some 2,500 vacancies still exist and educators insist only a pay hike will keep the schools open. The shortage is particularly acute in rural areas where the salary schedule is much lower than in urban areas.

The issue of the black lead pencil is expected to cause some controversy. Bricker said at first he would not ask the legislature to change the black pencil provision because he believed it a "clean election law."

Much of the controversy was begun by Democrats and labor groups. They declared the provision would invalidate thousands of soldier votes because few of the boys overseas were aware ballots had to be marked with a black lead pencil and such pencils might not be available in front lines or fox holes.

J.-M. Insulation Resists Heat, Cold Three Ways

One way that heat enters or escapes from an uninsulated house is by conduction—that is, through solids. When you surround your rooms with a full wall thickness of J-M Rock Wool Home insulation you actually have a barrier to the passage of conducted heat equal to 11 feet of solid stone.

A certain amount of heat also enters or escapes by radiation—that is, across open spaces. When you surround your house with a full wall thickness of J-M Rock Wool you effectively block off the passage of heat which otherwise radiates from one surface to another.

Another way that heat enters or escapes is by convection—that is, on air currents. The circulating air in the hollow walls and in the attic spaces of your house carries heat from warm to cold surfaces. By sealing up the hollow walls and by placing a 4 inch layer over the top floor ceiling, this form of heat transfer is effectively stopped.

Periodic Checkups Give Motorists Less Expense

It takes less time, money and material to keep a motor vehicle in top operating condition than to put it back in good condition, according to the experience of large trucking "fleets," reports H. I. Hine, local Ford dealer.

Companies that operate scores of cars and trucks maintain an elaborate system of cost records. Hine explains. Without exception these records have shown that "complete service check-ups at regular intervals save money, guard against breakdowns and 'layups,' save precious replacement parts and mechanics' time and stretch the life of the vehicle.

"Here are just a few of the things that routine battery inspection can correct. Loose battery connections or worn-out generator brushes which are bound to mean a run-down battery eventually; leaky gas lines; rotting radiator hoses, frayed and worn fan belts. Insufficient clutch pedal clearance can prematurely wear out clutch parts.

"Why is there a
telephone facilities?"

THE telephone business is deep in the war and getting deeper all the time.

The farther American forces advance, the more switchboards, wire and telephones they need. And those at home seem to want more, too.

Since the National Defense program started in 1940, we have supplied the communication needs of Army, Navy, war producers and most others. In all, the Bell System has increased the number of telephones in service by more than 4,500,000.

The equipment to do this came from reserves which have been used up. No more are available as practically all telephone manufacturing facilities and man power have been working to produce communication equipment for war.

But we're doing all we can to serve as many as possible as soon as possible by—

Reconditioning and using every facility capable of giving service.

Recovering facilities quickly when service is discontinued.

Converting one-party lines to serve two or more families whenever possible and necessary.

Operating central offices beyond their normal capacity.

Taking extra-good care of equipment that can't be replaced.

If you are one of the more than 60,000 persons waiting for telephone service in Ohio, we can't tell you when we will be able to serve you, but we do promise that your order will not be forgotten and will be filled in its proper turn.

"Beware The Yanks" Is Cry As Champs Climb Into First

With Softball Season All Over But Shouting, Here's Resume

China Is By Far the Top League Aggregation: 25 Wins, 4 Losses

With 1944 Class A softball all over but the shouting, a few interesting figures on the season are revealed in a tally of the books. By far the most outstanding aggregation in the senior loop is the Salem China, winners of the first three rounds and runnersup in the fourth and final session.

Figures also show that second best among the Class A hurlers is the slowball hurler, Chet Brautigam, of The News. Brautigam won 13 games and lost eight this season, and he did some neat upsetting of champions in his year's work. He was the first hurler to beat the China, downing them 8-0 in the third round and limiting them to two hits.

To prove that it wasn't a freak win, Brautigam came back with another two-hitter against the Potters in the fourth round to win, 3-0. Brautigam also threw one of the league's five no-hit games.

Francis Lanney, Sheen moundsman, not only pitched more games than any other league hurler, but threw two no-hit games. Both no-hitters came against Mullins, one in the first round and the second in the third.

Kenny Brudery, who pitched Demings into a fourth round title, won 12 games and lost nine after starting with the Pump team at the beginning of the second round. The hardest hitting pitcher in the league, Brudery has a .310 average and is the eighth leading league hitter.

Other no-hit pitchers this season are Ralph Gregg of the Recreation and Marty Pauline of Mullins. Gregg won 12 and lost eight this season and Pauline clicked successfully nine times while losing 13.

In the hitting department a decrease in power was noticeable this season. Only one batter in the league ended up over the 400 mark, a great drop over the power exhibited in past years. Of the 100 men in the Class A loop, only 11 were classed in the 300 group.

The China leads the league in team records also. Winning 25 of 29 tries, the Potters are well in advance of the second-place Recreation with their .545 mark of 13 wins and 10 losses. Next comes the News and Sheens, with 13 wins and 12 losses for a .520 mark.

Demings, winners of the fourth round, won 13 games and lost 15. Mullins won 10, lost 15, and Paxsons took 10 games while dropping 18. Jim's is the league's hard-luck aggregation, winning only four of 16 tries.

Here are the season's records:

FINALS IN TENNIS TOURNAMENT TO BE PLAYED OFF LATER

Preliminary Matches Over But Finals In Most Events Unplayed

Tennis over the weekend filled the sporting card at the Salem Country club and in spite of rain, most of the Labor day tourney was completed.

Finals still remain in most of the classes, but nearly all the preliminary play-offs were run off.

In the senior doubles class, Walt Deming and Harry Carlous have advanced to the finals and will meet John Mulford, Jr., and Loren Early for the title in the play-offs Saturday.

Frank Carlous defeated Jerry Miller, 6-2, and 6-4 to win the junior boys singles title yesterday. In the mixed singles for younger players, several matches must be played off before Saturday. Virginia Snyder and Mary (Sis) Mullins have a match to decide which of them will meet Bill Vignovich in the semi-finals.

The winner of the Vignovich match will then play John Mulford in the semi-finals to decide who meets Walt Brian, winner of the other bracket. Loren Early, tourney chairman, said today that all contestants are asked to play their pre-final matches off before Saturday at 1 p. m., when finals will be run off in all events.

Jerry Miller and Jack Ellis defeated Rudy Marocher and Harry Harrington in the boys doubles to walk off with the title in that classification yesterday.

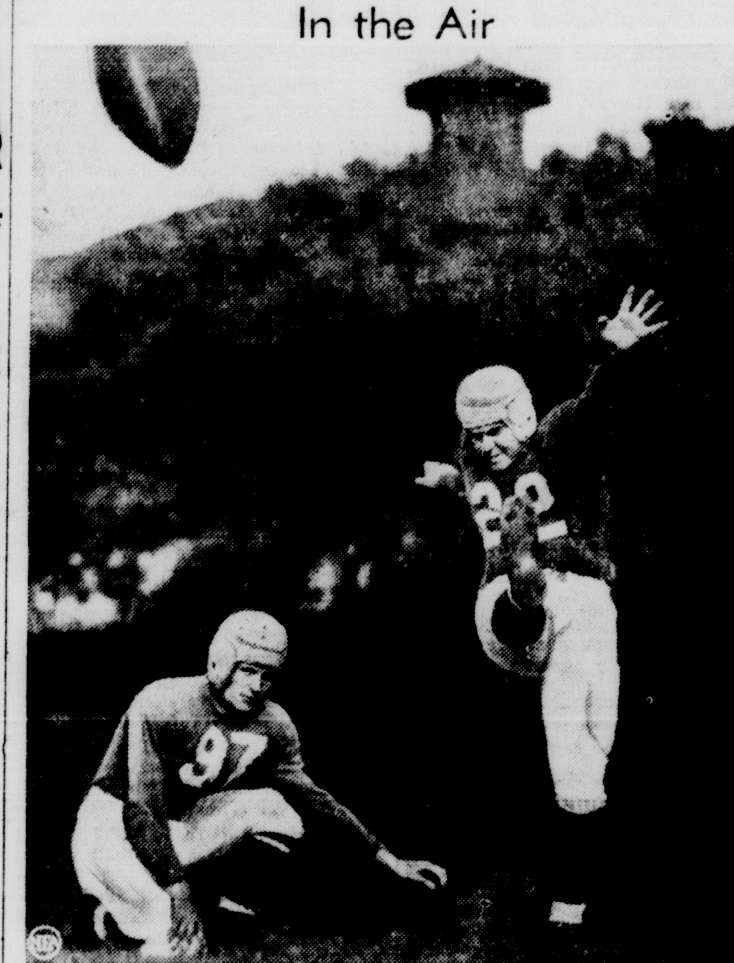

SPORT CHATTER

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—It may be an exciting American league "race" to some folks, but from here the progress of the Browns, Yanks, Tigers and Red Sox looks more like a quartet of drunks going down the street, their arms around one another's shoulders, trying their best to keep from staggering off the sidewalk. The reason you hear so little about big league baseballers in the Army is that there were so many complaints to the inspector-general's department about coddling athletes that public relations officers decided to clamp up about athletic feats of guys who are doing perfectly good and useful jobs on this side of the ocean.

DAMPENING HIS ENTHUSIASM

Fresco Thompson, talkative pilot of the New Orleans Pelicans, tells this yarn on himself. When Fresco was playing for the Phillies, uncle Charlie Moran, the umpire who achieved considerable fame as coach of the Centre college footballers when they were known as the praying Colonels, called him out on a close play at the plate. Fresco

Many a game is lost through failure to convert, but if practice makes perfect Cards-Pitts of National Football League will not be found lacking in this department. let out a terrific beef, concluding: "You ought to quit umpiring, Moran. Go back to college and teach the boys some new prayers." "Okay," Moran replied. "Now that you've brought up the subject of religion you go to the showers and baptize yourself. You're through for the day."

SHORTS AND SHELLS

Alex Barth, the race boss, has lost $200,000 worth of purses this season by a margin of less than his own length. He ran second in four $50,000 races, never losing by more than a half length.

Service Dept. The final of the station softball tournament at the Cherry Point.

N.C., Marine air station wound up in a 13-inning tie, no runs, no hits, no errors for either team, with Corp. William O'Rourke of Waterford, N. Herky Mosley, former Alabama halfback, has just returned from England where he completed 30-odd missions as a fortress pilot. His brother Russ, also a Lt. and a fortress pilot, is preparing to go overseas while Norman, third of the left-halfback brothers from "Bama, is on Bougainville.

Athletics Lose To Cisco Club, Then Beat Ravenna

Splitting even in two games over the holiday weekend, the Salem Athletics lost a try against the powerful Youngstown Cisco club, 8-5, on Sunday and came back yesterday to take a Labor day game with the Ravenna Elks, 6-4.

Although a double-header was planned yesterday, rain interrupted the plans just after the first game had finished and only the one contest was played.

Walt Smith worked the mound for Salem against the Ciscos Sunday and found the Youngstowners plenty rough at the plate. Among the 12 hits the Ciscos picked up, were two home runs and a double.

The Youngstowners scored five times in the third inning after Salem had gotten two pair, one in the first and another in the second. From then on the visitors were never beaten, getting two more runs in the fifth and another in the ninth. Salem tallied once again in the eighth.

On Labor day, Ravenna started out in the lead with three runs in the first inning in spite of Salem's pair in the last half of the frame. Three big runs in the sixth put the locals ahead, 5-3, and another in the eighth clinched the game. Ravenna scored one in the final inning but couldn't master the tying marker.

Al Lydick worked on the hill for Salem in the second game, allowing just five Ravenna hits in the nine inning contest.

NEW YORK—When the Yankees beat the White Sox it was the first series they had won from a western club since repelling the Tigers in early July.

Splitting Double Header With Indians Proves Bad Medicine For St. Louis

By JACK HAND
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

"Beware the Yanks" was the American league's battle cry again today as Joe McCarthy's champs, 7 smelling world series cash in the offing, surged from 9½ games back on Aug. 13 to pass the staggering St. Louis Browns by a half game with 21 to play.

As the four contenders hit the stretch drive toward the Oct. 1 deadline, the race looked like this:
Teams W. L. GB. Play Home Away
N. York 74 59 21 2 19
St. Louis 73 59 ½ 22 17 5
Detroit 70 60 2½ 24 18 6
Boston 71 62 3 21 4 17

New York has won 20 of its last 28 since losing three out of four to the Browns and being written out of the race.

Two rookies, Walt Dubiel and Mel Queen, helped boost the Yanks up on top yesterday by shutting out Philadelphia, 10-0 and 14-0, respectively.

Two Jamaicans Arrested For Causing Disturbance

LISBON, Sept. 5.—Federal agents were expected here today to take into custody for deportation two Jamaican Negroes, charged with creating a disturbance.
The men, housed at the Leetonia hotel with a group of other Jamaicans brought to this country for farm labor, were arrested yesterday at New Waterford by Deputy Sheriffs Howard Clark and Harold Shepard.

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie

Calais coast just across from England. Nobody can say now how many German troops will reach the Siegfried line. Nobody can foresee whether those who arrive will retain enough organization and equipment to be able to make a stand. None doubts that it has been Hitler's intention to fight.

I think we should be wrong to assume that we haven't some hard fighting ahead of us. However, we can say with confidence that the Germans cannot long hold the Siegfried line, or any other line, against the advancing Allies. Our great strength will increase with the acquisition of new ports like Antwerp, which is now in our hands.

The Siegfried line can't keep us out of the heart of Germany. For one thing it probably can be breached strong as it is, by employment of air power and massed artillery. In this connection it's worth of note that the Allies have just broken the German Gothic line in Italy, and this was regarded as the strongest defense line outside the German frontiers.

But it may not be necessary to smash the Siegfried line. The Allies have a big army of air-borne troops looking for trouble, and it may be that they will be used to knock the line out from the rear. In any event, the Siegfried defenses don't present the Allied high command with any unsolvable problem.

NAZIS

Woman was poking through burning rubble. A mustached, typical French peasant in a blue shirt and faded corduroy pants was the only other civilian visible. His eyes were red from weeping. The Germans had shot his son.

From them and Lt. Philip Wagner, Cincinnati, O., whose reconnaissance column first entered the town, we pieced together the story. Two days ago the FFI ambushed a German staff car nearby, whereupon members of a German Panzer grenadier division surrounded the village, shooting at anything in sight. Everything alive on the streets was killed.

That's how the 72-year-old grandfather died. One house caught fire. When a young man fled with clothes aflame he was shot down. Another older man was shot as he tried to run into the woods.

The Germans then searched house by house, seizing every man they found. When they came to the one in bed with a broken leg they just shot him and went on.

The prisoners were loaded on trucks, taken outside the village and lined up before machine guns. Most of the women and children had fled terror-stricken into the woods but the wife of one man followed the Germans.

Pleas Successful
She fell on her knees in front of the officer in charge of the execution and pleaded for the men's lives. Her pleas were successful. The officer ordered the execution cancelled but the soldiers fell upon the helpless men and beat them with fists and rifle butts.

Other German soldiers went through the town, looting and setting every house on fire.
"Next was the village of Namee, just like this one but more people have been killed," Wagner said. "We passed through there last night but did not stay."

Later at rear headquarters came reports that the village of Robert Espange had been burned and 52 men killed and that beury had been burned. Both villages are between Vitry and St. Mihiel.

OBITUARY

MRS. FRANK HRVATIN

Mrs. Jane L. Hrvatin, 21, wife of Frank Hrvatin, Jr., of the Goshen rd., died at Salem City hospital at 11 p. m. Saturday of a heart ailment.
Born in Salem, July 20, 1923, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Rufer, she had spent her entire life here except for six months' residence in Cleveland. Mrs. Hrvatin was a member of Goshen grange and attended the Christian Science church.

Besides her husband, she leaves her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Rufer and a sister, Ruth, of the Goshen rd.; and her great-grandmother, Mrs. W. J. Ball, Lansdowne, Pa.

Christian Science service was held at 2:30 this afternoon at the Arbaugh-Pearce funeral home. Burial was in Grandview cemetery.

CLARENCE E. HUSTON

Funeral service was held at 2:30 this afternoon at the Phillips Church of Christ, south of Salem, for Clarence E. Huston, 84, retired farmer, who died at 11:30 a. m. Saturday at his home, R. D. 3.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Huston, he was born in Middleton township Nov. 26, 1860. He was married Dec. 1, 1884 to Elizabeth Davidson. A former farmer, Mr. Huston was a member of the Phillips church and Salem grange.

Besides his wife, he leaves a son, Ralph Huston, at home; two sisters, Mrs. Lenora Boyd of Clarkson and Mrs. Jesset Farmer of Fort Wayne, Ind., and one grandchild.

WILLIAM W. MERCER

Funeral service was held at 2:30 p. m. today for William W. Mercer, 55, of Damascus, who died of a heart attack at 1:15 p. m. Saturday as he was walking along the Valley road near his home.

The service was held at the Mosman funeral home in Sebring in charge of Rev. H. E. Stouff, pastor of the Damascus Methodist church, assisted by Rev. William Grossman, pastor of the Sebring United Presbyterian church. Burial was in the Damascus cemetery.

The son of Harvey and Laura Mercer, Mr. Mercer was born May 14, 1889, in Garfield. A member of the Damascus Methodist church, he was employed by a Sebring pottery.

Surviving are his wife, Eliza; four sons, William H. and Charles of Sebring, Pvt. Dean Mercer of Sheppard Field, Tex., and Herbert of the home; two daughters, Mrs. LaVerne White of Alliance, and Seaman 2 c Vera Mercer of Grosse Ile, Mich., and one grandchild.

U. S. HOLIDAY DEATH TOLL PLACED AT 245

(By Associated Press)

Fatalities throughout the nation for the Labor day holiday weekend reached 245 today, more than half being caused by traffic accidents, an Associated Press survey showed.

The death toll for the 1943 Labor day period was 265 persons. In 1942 about 350 died and in 1941 more than 600.

Of this year's total, 137 were due to traffic accidents, 54 each for drownings and miscellaneous causes. California led with 28 deaths, 22 from traffic causes. Illinois was next with 18 and Pennsylvania third with 17. Ohio had four traffic deaths, one drowning, and one miscellaneous death.

ISLAND RAIDS

another task force pounded Wake island 1,645 miles to the east.

Mindanao, in the southern Philippines, was dealt its third straight big air attack even as other sizeable blows engulfed such outer defense bastions as Celebes, Halmahera and Palau.

From Paramushiro in the northern Kuriles to Dutch Timor, the fiery devastation was sown at a cost of seven planes. Not a warship was reported so much as damaged. Japan's carefully husbanded air force made only a few scattered appearances and nothing bigger than a submarine chaser was spotted of the enemy fleet.

Five cargo ships and a tanker definitely were sunk, a cargo ship and three submarine chasers probably sunk and three sub chasers were damaged in the Bonin and Volcano groups.

Twelve freighters were sunk or severely damaged off Mindanao. A freighter was sunk near Halmahera, another destroyed or badly smashed off Talaud. Three freighters were sent down at Celebes.

In addition to these 30, a landing craft and six barges were sunk and a Sampan damaged in the Bonin-Volcano strikes and nine barges were destroyed or damaged off Dutch New Guinea.

Eighty-five Japanese planes were accounted for in the Bonin-Volcano action—11 shot down, 35 definitely destroyed around and in Anchor, 29 probably destroyed and 10 damaged. At least three, perhaps seven, were shot down at Celebes and 15 more wiped out as "sitting ducks."

Burned By Gasoline

AKRON, Sept. 5.—Burns sustained in a gasoline explosion proved fatal yesterday to Alexander Parsons, 50.

Relieve that Tormenting

PIN-WORM ITCH Too Embarrassing to Talk About!

It is no longer necessary to put up with the trouble caused by Pin-Worms. Don't let your child or yourself suffer that tormenting, embarrassing, rectal itching, or take chances with the internal distress.

Medical science has now discovered a new and highly effective way to deal with this stubborn and troublesome infection. This important scientific discovery is a remarkable drug known as gentian violet. It is the vital element in P-W, the new Pin-Worm treatment developed by the laboratories of Dr. D. Jayne & Son, America's leading specialists in worm medicines. P-W tablets are small and easy to take, and they act in a special way to destroy the only creature.

Watch for the warning signs: itching nose and seat, uneasy stomach, bed-wetting, uneven appetite. Remember that now there is a treatment that works on Pin-Worms as no old-fashioned "worm syrup" or "worm candy" could. So if you suspect Pin-Worms, get a box of P-W right away, and follow the directions carefully. P-W means Pin-Worm relief!
